

The art of simplicity rather than ostentatious splendor is Le Roch’s conception of luxury. It was around this ideal that the 37 room boutique hotel with the spirit of a home, offering a sincere welcome, was conceived. The interior design is the work of a true Parisian, Sarah Lavoine. With her aesthetic sense and superb craftsmanship, she finds true expression in all aspects of creativity that interest and inspire her, whether that be color, furniture and authentic objects, pure materials or simple line.

Rooms & Suites

Havens of true comfort due to their very generous dimensions and high tech facilities of exceptional quality, the 32 rooms and 5 suites of Le Roch Hotel & Spa are also superb examples of sheer style.

This style, designed by the Parisian Sarah Lavoine, embodies a blending of the chic and the contemporary that resonates with inspiration.

Available in 5 different color schemes, the decor of the rooms creates a delicate interplay with natural light, a rare refinement that becomes a showcase for natural materials and designer furniture. Here is a tasteful combination of Carrara marble, solid walnut flooring, furniture by Sarah Lavoine, Cassina and GamFratesi, carpets by Chevalier Edition.

The spacious bathrooms feature superb Moroccan zelliges—handmade clay tiles whose colors echo those of the bedrooms—and are equipped with generously sized bathtubs created by Kaldewei.
